6:22 HOSTS SEVENTH ANNUAL WORSHIPFEST

Event calls students together for a weekend of music, unity and creativity.

6:22 Ministries will host Worshipfest 2009 at Open Door Ministries in Winterville, NC on August 7-8 featuring Jonathan David Helser, Scott Hobbs, Brandon Willett and the 6:22 band. The free event starts at 7pm Friday and noon on Saturday with each day's festivities lasting through the night.

The highlight of Worshipfest is the three main sessions that are Friday night at 7pm with the 6:22 band, Saturday at 1pm with Scott Hobbs and Saturday at 7pm with Jonathan David Helser. Each session includes the live band, a dynamic speaker, games and a drama presentation. There will also be a late night Friday session with Brandon Willett, a DJ and artist from Charlotte, North Carolina. Lunch and dinner will be for sale on Saturday, with acoustic musical acts performing outside while the food is served. A prayer room will also be open at the facilities for the entire event.

"The three main goals of the event are unity, creativity and life-long impact," says Matthew Lilley, Worshipfest's organizer. "The hope of the event is to see lasting impact in student's lives affecting their youth groups, schools and families in a positive way." Students are encouraged to unite together from various churches and denominations, and although the event is aimed at students, all people are welcomed regardless of age, race, or church affiliation. Creativity is encouraged through creative workshops on Saturday afternoon with opportunities to learn about painting, writing, drama, dance and more. The musical guests will also feature a variety of styles and genres.

6:22 Ministries is a Christian non-profit organization based in Greenville, NC aimed at uniting students in worship and prayer. Other 6:22 events include Friday night ecumenical worship gatherings and traveling music ministry. Matthew Lilley founded 6:22 in August 2002 and travels to churches around North Carolina providing music and preaching. Last year's Worshipfest was a weekend of continuous 24 hours of music at the Greenville Convention Center that attracted nearly one thousand attendees.
